S.S. PERFECT TONIL

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S. S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying a certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed make it splendidly fitted to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S. S. S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body.

igan, "Master of Hawthorne," builder of many racetracks, owner of the fleet horses, hero of a score of turf battles, is down and out at last. Today, his health gone and his spirit broken, he faces a still greater blow. His wife is dying and he sits watching at her bedside, forgetting all else and hoping against more hopeless odds than ever bookmaker wrote. Ever since racing was put under the ban in Illinois the financial tide has been running steadily agaist Corri-gan. He lost Hawthorne racetrack, the pride of his heart; he lost his big breeding farm in Kentucky; one by one his other interests slipped away. A few days ago he found himself at the end of his resources. A note for $24,000 signed by him in favor of the Foreman Bros. Banking company and indorsed by his old friend, Tom Carey, was presented with a demand for pay "I have nothing," admitted the "I have nothing," admitthe veteran turfman, and Carey took up the note. Now, although Corrigan is broke, he is not in want, for a friend has staked him to $2,000, just a remembrance of ola Corrigan got his start in life many years ago as a contractor. He and his brother build many miles of the Union Pacific Railroad. The brother stuck to the contracting game, but Ed went into racing, and as the years passed he fought his way from the bottom to the He was of the gruff, quick-tempered, kind-nearted breed, and the chip on his shoulder was always being disturbed. cago that Corrigan and "Blind John" Condon fought for supremacy until the gate of every track was closed tight by the police.

It was a quarrel that built the oppo sition track at New Orleans; out of a quarrel rose the Elm Ridge track, near Kansas City. Out on the Pacific Coast the "Master of Hawthorne" fell out with Tom Williams and, presto, "Master" built Ingleside, one of the prettiest and best equipped race courses in the land. The city fathers of San Francisco closed Ingleside and Corrigan crossed the county line and built Tanforan racetrack. That was when he was at the top of the heap. Since then the way has been all down hill, with now and then a stop for Cooney Huron against the protest of the stewards. Huron finished second, but got no part of the money, and after that Corrigan would never race a horse on the New York tracks, although often invited to come back and be forgiven. At his breeding farm the "Master" had fifty or sixty fine brood mares, many of them imported. For many years he raced two or three big strings every season. Riley and Geyser were two of his noted winners. These, and other flyers as good, if not better, put tons of flour in the barrel, but fighting turf magnates cost Corrigan millions. He broke many a man in his time, and now his turn has come. The bell still rings on many tracks, but the colors of the "Master of Hawthorne" are seen no all horse races, the Derby, which will be run at Epsom Downs tomorrow, promises to be the most interesting Derby of a decade. The possibility that King Edward's Minoru will win the purse of $32,250 and the owner gain the distinction of being the first reigning monarch to take the classic, gives the contest an importance that can not be over-estimated in the eyes of the British public. Minoru is now a hot favorite for the event. Although last year this colt was not rated in the first class, he made phenomenal improvement during the winter. He easily won the 2,000 guineas at New-market April 23. His principal op-ponent is considered to be Louis Wi-nans' Sir Martin, from John E. Madden's Kentucky farm, which is sup-posed to have cost his present owner $80,000. Sir Martin is now in the very best of form. He recently won the Welter Plate at Newmarket and

KING EDWARD OUT FOR DERBY PURSE

Why Sperry Was Wrong

Rear Admiral Sperry, whose unruffled dignity and legal trend of thought has given him the reputation of a just officer, far removed from wardroom jokes, was watching with interest a party of children who were being shown over the flagship Connecticut while the fleet was here. To a lieutenant who stood by his side he remarked on the intelligence the children evinced in the questions they were asking
